

WORKS BY MODERN MASTERS ON VIEW

Sculptures by Rodin and Canvases of Renoir and Whistler for Auction.

Collectors will scrutinize sharply the collection of modern art now on view in the Anderson Galleries, preparatory to a sale on next Thursday and Friday, for it is examples of Rodin, Whistler, Renoir and Sargent, whose values have "an upward tendency." Besides these there are canvases by men well known in England, headed by Sir William Orpen who, so far as American auctions are concerned, are unknown quantities. The pictures came from several owners, among whom are E. S. Uman, the estate of the late Mrs. John P. Carroll, and the estate of the late Mattia Stillel.

The Renoirs include thirty-three oil sketches and three drawings in charcoal. The sketches are small, swift notations of models and landscapes. The drawings are larger and full of the Renoir quality. They were purchased nine years ago in Paris, it is said, by a collector, who obtained them from a woman friend to whom Renoir had given them.

There are two nudes by Rodin, "Despair" and "Eve." The "Despair," a huddled figure, half buried in the snow, has all the subtle qualities that are so hard to define but which all the world recognizes as "Rodin." The two Whistlers are seascapes, done at Pourville, France. They would be called thumb-box sketches were they by a lesser artist, but they have all the breadth that is expected from Whistler. Sargent is represented by two of his dazzling water colors of Venice. The touches are put on unerringly. Two water colors by Fred May, who is not well known here, challenge Mr. Sargent's. In summariness of execution and breadth of effect, his two sea views are clever indeed. Sir William Orpen's contributions are carefully considered works of art. One is of himself and his model resting in the studio before the great window that has already figured in some of his pictures. The other picture is an attractive portrait of Miss Wilson.

Other English paintings that will attract attention are "Old Inverloch," a gloomy but strong production by D. T. Cameron; a group of clever figure pieces by Harrington Mann, a landscape with a cupids by the Titian by Charles Sims; a "Festive portrait" by William Strang, "The Beggar Maid" by the Illustrator, Maurice Greiffenhagen, and canvases by A. S. Hartwick, Philip Conrad, W. B. E. Ranken and Prof. Gerald Moira.

In the collection the American school holds its own. Among the native works are several by the late Frederic Remington. One of his is the "Bear Pot," an ominous study, in which prisoners in a Mexican patio are drawing beans from a pot to decide which is to face the firing squad, standing with rifles nearby. There are also several of Remington's drawings. A landscape by George Inness shows the cool green interior of a wood in "Keene Valley," and by Chase there is a beach scene, probably painted at Etincock.

Other contributors are Jervis McNeely, Abraham Van Strij, Troyon, J. G. Brown, Boudin, Leonard Ochtman, Bonington, Wyant, E. L. Henry, Groleron, Berne-Bellecour, John Leech and Charles H. Miller.

DUBLIN RAIDS NET SINN FEIN CHIEFS

Seven Councilmen Among Prisoners Rounded Up.

DUBLIN, Jan. 31.—Many Sinn Fein leaders were arrested in a big round up at 4 o'clock this morning. They were taken to an unrevealed destination. Seven of the newly elected members of the Municipal Council were among those arrested. The military alone carried out the raid.

The wife of one of the men arrested was informed that the warrant for the arrest would be read when the prisoner was taken to the barracks.

Joseph McGrath, Sinn Fein Member of the House of Commons for the St. James Division of Dublin, also was arrested.

Among the members of the Municipal Council arrested were Lawrence and Brennan, Michael Collins, for whom the police have been searching for some time, was taken into custody. The house of Alderman McGarry was searched during his absence and his brother-in-law, named Henderson, arrested.

The prisoners were taken in lorries to the barracks. More than twenty of the arrested men were placed in Mountjoy Prison.

About forty Sinn Feiners were detained to-day by the police and military in various districts of Munster.

The new Lord Mayor, Tom Kelly, who is in Wormwood Scrubbs prison, will not be compelled to take any oath and it is one of the humors of the situation that, under the charter of Charles I, he becomes nominally a captain in the British army. Alderman Cosgrove probably will be appointed to fill the Lord Mayor's office as Kelly's deputy while he is in prison.

London, Jan. 31.—Advices from Ireland to-day show that the constabulary and the military detained twenty-five men this morning under charges of violation of the Defense of the Realm Act in Counties Limerick, Clare and Tipperary.

NEWBERRY JURY COMPLETED.

Prosecutor Bailey Will Open His Case To-morrow Morning.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 31.—The jury which is to decide the guilt or innocence of the 125 defendants in the Newberry election conspiracy trial was completed in the United States District Court here to-day. It embraces six farmers, one grain dealer, one cattle buyer, two produce dealers, a grocer and a manager of a farmer's cooperative selling concern.

While most of the defendants scattered to their homes as soon as court adjourned the chief engineers of the trial elected to "remain in Grand Rapids on the job," as Senator Newberry expressed it. Attorneys for the defense arranged for numerous conferences and Frank C. Bailey, special prosecutor, said he would work on the address which he expects to make to the jury as the opening statement of the prosecution Monday.

Are You Serious About Your Shopping?

What we mean is: Are you serious about wanting to spend wisely or is your remark about making each dollar do double duty only the echo of a passing thought?

"The thing I notice about Hearn customers is that very few of them are lookers," said a well-known newspaper man, "nearly all of them mean business. They take their shopping seriously."

And the following, under the title of "Stores New York Can't Forget," appeared in the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Of Hearn's Store the writer says:

"It is in a class by itself. Its publicity preaches in so many words. This is Hearn's; been here almost a century . . . no fuss, no frills, just the best qualities we can get sold for the least price we can afford; people to deal with whom you understand and who understand you and your wants

And then this writer concludes with: "And what a fine business they do." We appreciate the compliment tendered us by him the more so since he happens to be the former advertising director of two uptown competitors, and ought to know whereof he speaks.

This is a time for serious and sensible shopping. As Theodore Roosevelt said: "Thrift is common sense as applied to spending."

Hearn this week is offering "Dressmakers' Sales" and Interesting Clearances—that bring THRIFTY people from far and near.

Are you serious in your shopping?
